British Anzani Releases New Old Stock Super Single Engines and Spares

Truro, Cornwall, November, 2005: After deliberation, the recently re-launched British Anzani Company is releasing a limited supply of old stock Super Single outboard spares and complete motors. Although these classic engines and spares are nearly 30 years old, they are as new. The British Anzani Super Single 5 model outboard motor was the first model produced by this company and at one time was one of British Anzani's most popular in their range.

Anzani Director, Matthew Bromley says, "The announcement on the British Anzani forum has already created quite a buzz within the community. We continually receive enquiries from enthusiasts from around the world who tell us they are always on the look-out for classic British Anzani engines. It is rare to be able to offer fully-working engines in such excellent condition, along with original parts. We are pleased to finally release these engines and anticipate they will move fast".

In the past, engines produced by British Anzani have always enjoyed a great reputation for all-round quality and efficiency. The fact that these engines are in excellent working condition is a tribute to its robust construction and reliable and economical performance.

The Super Single 50 5 HP is being released. It is a single cylinder, two-stroke, water cooled and available in standard shaft and long shaft. The cooling is by a pressure vacuum system with separate above water barrel type exhaust muffler.

Bromley says, "These motors are known for their effortless starting, low fuel consumption, smooth running and simplicity of operation. We will also provide copies of original handbooks with complete operating instructions. In addition, we have a library of original advertisements and full colour pictures for the die-hard enthusiasts to enjoy."

For almost a century British Anzani has been creating innovative and cutting edge marine products. In recent times, British Anzani has focused its effort and skill entirely on creating first-class, environmentally sound marine products, such as tinned copper wiring, terminals, adhesive-lined shrink products and electrical accessories.

From its headquarters in Truro, Cornwall, British Anzani is rapidly growing and establishing better ways to meet the needs of the boating and yachting community. British Anzani does not just cater to Cornwall, but to clients worldwide, thanks in part to the recent re-launch of their website www.britishanzani.com and their contacts within the online forum.
